

Announcing the NEW HME Talk, located at www.hmetalk.com

Since HME Talk first launched, we have been working on a web-based version of HME Talk that would allow for a more interactive experience – more messages, specific categories of messages, a searchable database, blogs, news, and much more – all via an online web site.

The NEW HME Talk is LIVE, easy to use, and gaining new members and new messages every day.

The new HME Talk web-based site does allow you the ability to read and send message postings VIA YOUR EMAIL SOFTWARE, however, the two services are completely separate and all communications now go through the new HME Talk.

To see all the recent message postings in one place, click on the “See Latest Postings!” link.

To receive postings from a specific category into your email software, click on the forum category (e.g. “Billing”) and then click the orange button labeled “Get Posts via Email!” You will also be able to reply to message postings and create new message threads right from your email software.

The News area will help keep you up to date with what is going on in the HME world.

Please register at www.hmetalk.com. Your current subscription to the existing email-based HME Talk service is in no way connected to the NEW HME Talk, so you will need to Register a new account at www.hmetalk.com to begin reading and sending messages on the new HME Talk. All of the information you need to get started with the new HME Talk is on www.hmetalk.com and www.hmetalk.com/about.php.

The HME Talk ListServ was turned off permanently on Friday, January 22nd.

If you have any questions or comments, send an email to support@hmetalk.com. Or, if it’s appropriate, post it on the NEW HME Talk!
